If you need to sell fast, you have options.

In today's retail market, it takes one to six months to sell your home — or you can speed things up by considering offers from investors.

Investors typically offer a bit lower than what you would get with full market exposure — however the offers are in cash, they close very quickly, and investors take the home as it is. No repairs or market preparation are required.

Holly is committed to giving back to the community she loves. That's why she donates 10% of her gross commission to a local 501c3 charity of your choice.

And, fund a local charity.
